Today, The NoHo Arts District, in conjunction with greater North Hollywood, is being transformed into a regional center, in large part as a result of the construction of Metro Stations for the Red Line and the Orange Line, two lines that have made the neighborhood into a regional hub for the San Fernando Valley.

Medium- and high-density developments are being built around the Metro Station, making the Arts District a center of citywide development, with the intent of creating a walkable urban village. North Hollywood's landscape (and the Art's District as a result) has been transformed in recent years, with condominium towers (including a fifteen-story building on Lankershim Boulevard being built in the midst of older one-story bungalows and small apartment complexes.

30+ PROJECTS
In the immediate area

North Hollywood has experienced a dramatic transformation over the past decade with a steady migration of higher-income residents attracted to the area's urban amenities, improved schools, and convenient location near key employment and entertainment centers.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD

North Hollywood has transformed into the Valley's go-to cultural hub over the last decade with an influx of dance studios, art galleries and acting workshops—and now...massive mixed-use communities. The immediate area has experienced a development boom that will continue through 2025.

Due to the city's sought-after dining, nightlife and artistic lifestyle...demand for housing has reached an all time high. In order to meet the demand for housing, developers have flocked to North Hollywood to build close to $3 billion in mixed use projects from 2015 - 2020.

NoHo West is a massive 25-acre mixed use development project set to reshape the west side of North Hollywood. The project, a joint venture between Merlone Geier Partners and GPI Companies, recreates the failed shopping mall at 6150 Laurel Canyon Boulevard with a mix of low-rise and mid-rise structures containing a mix of rental apartments, offices, and pedestrian-oriented commercial uses

DIRECTORY

The NoHo Arts District is a community in North Hollywood, Los Angeles, California, that is home to contemporary theaters, art galleries, cafes, and shops. The community is generally bounded by Hatteras Street to the north, Cahuenga Blvd to the east, Tujunga Ave to the west, and Camarillo Street to the south. The area features more than twenty professional theaters, producing new work and classics, diverse art galleries, public art, and professional dance studios. The district also features the largest concentration of music recording venues west of the Mississippi. A Metro Rail station is located here, the North Hollywood station of the Red Line, and serves as the terminus of the Metro Orange Line busway.

Business and theater owners in the Universal City/North Hollywood Chamber of Commerce established a theater and arts district in 1992 with support from the Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs. They chose "NoHo", a play off the well-known SoHo Arts District neighborhood of New York City.

Today, The NoHo Arts District, in conjunction with greater North Hollywood, is being transformed into a regional center, in large part as a result of the construction of Metro Stations for the Red Line and the Orange Line, two lines that have made the neighborhood into a regional hub for the San Fernando Valley. Medium- and high-density developments are being built around the Metro Station, making the Arts District a center of citywide development, with the intent of creating a walkable urban village. North Hollywood's landscape (and the Art's District as a result) has been transformed in recent years, with condominium towers (including a fifteen-story building on Lankershim Boulevard being built in the midst of older one-story bungalows and small apartment complexes.

NOHO WEST

A transformation is underway for this new mixed-use lifestyle center at the current Macy's site on Laurel Canyon Boulevard at Oxnard Street in North Hollywood. The redevelopment will repurpose the existing Macy's building to serve office and retail uses, and incorporate a walkable main street retail concept and amenity-rich residential apartments. The design for the site layout weaves the new development into the existing fabric of the neighborhood to include shopping, working and leisure that compliments the active and contemporary NOHO West community. NOHO West will offer expanded retail shopping opportunities around a large open air plaza, an office building, new residences and abundant public open spaces. The retail main street may include a mix of regional retailers, restaurants and cafes, a specialty market and cinema. This anticipated mix of uses will create a unique opportunity to live, work and shop in a walkable, vibrant setting.

Three-to-six-story buildings fronting Erwin Street and Radford Avenue at the northeast corner of the development site will comprise up to 742 residential units, seated atop a basement parking garage. The east side of the site will be improved with a new retail paseo, cutting north-to-south between Erwin and Oxnard Streets. The 190,000 square feet of rentable space will include uses such as a gym, a supermarket, and a multiplex cinema. Plans also call for an eight-story parking structure toward the western side of the property, with accommodations for up to 2,600 vehicles. At the center of the property, a former Macy's department store is the lone remnant of the property's earlier use. The four-story structure is being repurposed with more than 500,000 square feet of offices.

SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

Almost 2.5 million people reside in the San Fernando Valley, which includes the submarkets of Northridge-Northwest San Fernando Valley; Van Nuys-Northeast San Fernando Valley; Woodland Hills; Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena; as well as Sherman Oaks-North Hollywood-Encino. The area's population is expected to increase by 1.9 percent through 2019, or by nearly 45,000 new residents.

ENTERTAINMENT INDUSTRY

Known for its entertainment industry, the Valley boasts more than 100 soundstages. Entertainment giants calling the Valley home include Walt Disney Co., Universal Studios, Warner Brothers, DreamWorks and Paramount Ranch. The entertainment industry continues to set the area's economic pulse. Local motion picture and entertainment companies employ roughly 25,000 people.

LIMITLESS OPPORTUNITIES

While the Valley has grown into the world's center for entertainment, aerospace giants Boeing and Northrop Grumman, and 21st Century Insurance also generate numerous well-paying jobs. Healthcare is also a major source of employment with providers that include Kaiser Permanente, and Providence Health & Services. As a result of its large concentration of high-salaries and successful companies, the area's median household income of $59,300 per year has risen dramatically since 2000. Although the median home prices dipped during the recession, affordability remains a challenge for much of the local population. High home prices keep the homeownership rate near 50% in the San Fernando Valley and provide a large rental base.

LOS ANGELES TRENDS

Transaction activity remains extremely busy in the LA industrial market. Sales volume in 2018 surpassed $5.4 billion—about 7% of the nation's volume. Outsized rent growth in LA's industrial market has led to increased liquidity, driving rapid cap rate compression and price gains. Investors in the market have been motivated by a multitude of reasons exemplified in some of the largest recent transactions.

- Expansion is one motivating factor for recent sales
- Another motivating factor is the ability to secure a tenant
- A more common motivation involves achieving steady cash flow
- Acquiring aging industrial assets in LA to redevelop for multifamily or creative office use has also been a popular investor strategy this cycle

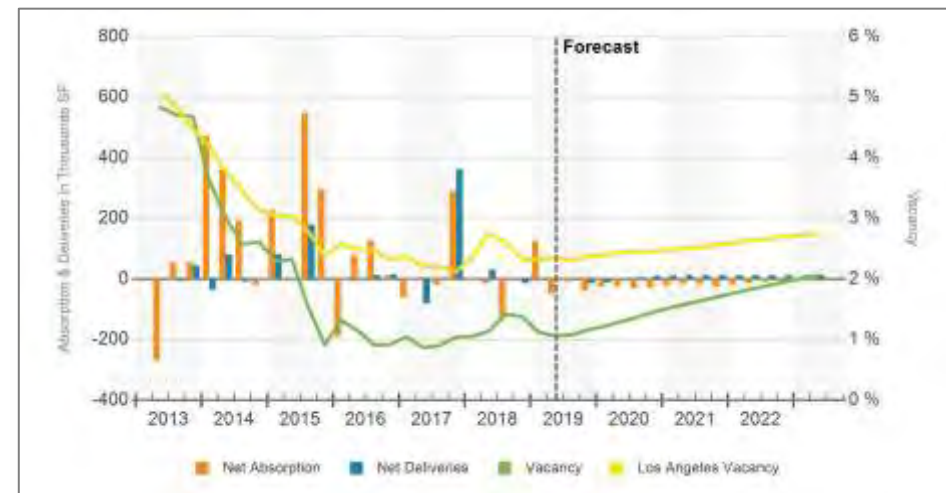

SUBMARKET OVERVIEW

NORTH HOLLYWOOD OVERVIEW

The East San Fernando Valley Submarket is one of the northernmost submarkets in LA, with the Angeles National Forest to its east and the affluent Tri-Cities to the south. Manufacturing has been a staple of the community since the 1970s, and recent growth in logistics has helped offset some of the downsizing and offshoring in the sector. Indeed, strong demand has kept the vacancy rates under 2% for much of this cycle, spurring robust rent growth. Deliveries have been sparse recently and inventory has grown by 2% since 2010—a similar rate as the metro as a whole.

Most transactions are in the $3 million to $6 million range and sales volumes has held steady throughout this cycle. However, a Rexford Industrial purchased a 123,000 SF warehouse for $22.5 million ($183/SF) in July 2018—one of the largest sales executed in the submarket's history. Pricing in the submarket can range from $40/SF to $500/SF.
